Tracking prevention

Websites use trackers to collect info about your browsing. Websites may use this info to improve sites and show you content like personalized ads. Some trackers collect and send your info to sites you haven't visited.

Tracking prevention

Basic

- Allows most trackers across all sites
- Content and ads will likely be personalized
- Sites will work as expected
- Blocks known harmful trackers

Balanced
(Recommended)

- Blocks trackers from sites you haven't visited
- Content and ads will likely be less personalized
- Sites will work as expected
- Blocks known harmful trackers

Strict

- Blocks a majority of trackers from all sites
- Content and ads will likely have minimal personalization
- Parts of sites might not work
- Blocks known harmful trackers

The screenshot shows the Chrome Settings application. On the left is a vertical sidebar with various settings categories: You and Google, Autofill, Privacy and security (highlighted), Performance, Appearance, Search engine, Default browser, On startup, Languages, Downloads, Accessibility, and System. The main content area features a search bar at the top, a 'Take the Privacy Guide' card with 'Get started' and 'No thanks' buttons, a 'Safety check' section with a 'Check now' button, and a 'Privacy and security' section. The 'Clear browsing data' option is highlighted with a red box, and a red arrow points from it towards the second screenshot.

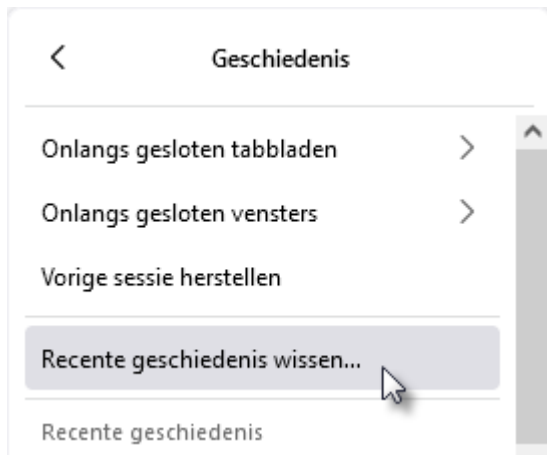

This screenshot shows the 'Clear browsing data' dialog box. It has two tabs: 'Basic' (selected) and 'Advanced'. Under 'Basic', there is a 'Time range' dropdown menu set to 'Last hour'. Three items are checked with blue checkmarks: 'Browsing history' (with subtext 'Clears history, including in the search box'), 'Cookies and other site data' (with subtext 'Signs you out of most sites.'), and 'Cached images and files' (with subtext 'Frees up less than 331 MB. Some sites may load more slowly on your next visit.'). A grey information box at the bottom states: 'Search history and other forms of activity may be saved in your Google Account when you're signed in. You can delete them anytime.' At the bottom right, there are two buttons: 'Cancel' and 'Clear data'. A large red arrow points from the 'Clear data' button in this dialog back to the 'Clear browsing data' option in the settings menu above.
